The Legislature.

On motion, a recess was taken at 9:10, subject to the call of the Chair.

Order was called at 10:40, and after a little wait, a message arrived from the Governor vetoing certain items in the Loan Bill. On motion of Harris, it was ordered spread upon the journal, and Kumalae moved to sustain the veto. Paele asked to consider each item vetoed, but Aylett said what is the use, the Governor's objections being on old works, and it's only waste of time to consider item by item. On the motion to sustain being put, it prevailed by a vote of 21 ayes.

Secretary Carter gave notification that the Governor signed Acts 16 and 17, being respectively, the Six and Eighteen Months Salary Bills.

Another message from the Governor was also read, congratulating the Legislature for coming to a close of its labors and for the liberal appropriations made.

The minutes of the day's session were then read and approved.

Speaker Backley then congratulated, before adjourning, for the work accomplished and the results achieved. He said that the House may have occupied more time than was necessary, but they have before them the Governor's words of congratulation, thanking the legislators for their labors. The record was one to be proud of despite the adverse comments of newspapers. All the improvements asked for by constituents are provided. By the vote of the day, all racial differences and petty schemes have been put aside and the interests of the people regarded as being above all. He thanked the members for their expression of confidence in him, which he deemed a most priceless tribute, and that what success he had attained was alike due to all. They differed in political beliefs, but in their work they have sunk all such differences and worked for the people. And wherever they may be, rest assured that the aloha of their Speaker will always be with them.

Calling upon the Chaplain, every one in the hall rising, he offered up his final legislative benediction, at the end of which, Interpreter Coelho led the finale by singing "Aloha Oe" and closed with "Hawaii Ponohi," concluding at 11:40 o'clock.
